

Health Equity Guide Lineage + Appreciation

We are eternally grateful to all the people and wisdom who helped bring the Health Equity Guide to life. It was first released in 2017 as a tool to help health departments advance their health equity practice. Since then, our political and social conditions have changed, and our collective health and racial equity practices — and recommendations — have rightfully and necessarily evolved. We are excited with where we are today, and we look forward to continued growth and evolution in the future.

Things have changed at HIP too, and we are thrilled to have new energy and staff influencing our thinking and practice. That said, we are grateful to many staff for influencing our thinking over the years, and for their role in crafting the original Health Equity Guide.

First and foremost, we appreciate the commitment and thoughtfulness of Megan Gaydos, former HIP staff member, for her leadership in managing the project and conceptualizing many elements. Thank you also to current and former HIP staff, including Lili Farhang, Logan Harris, Jonathan Heller and Ana Tellez for their visioning and work on many aspects of the tool. Thank you also to people who supported on the design and technical side of the website, including: Ayalen Carrasco, UI Designer; Cozette Lehman, Graphic Designer; Sonja Leix, Web Designer; Megan Tady, Copyeditor; Janna R. White, Copyeditor; and Megan Woo, Web Developer.

Thank you, also, to The California Endowment for their generous support of the Health Equity Guide specifically and HIP more broadly.

Finally, we deeply appreciate the following health equity leaders who served as Project Advisors during the six-month process we took to develop the original Health Equity Guide. We greatly appreciate their invaluable suggestions, input, and connections.

2017 Health Equity Guide Project Advisors:

- Manal Aboelata, Prevention Institute
- Jeanne Ayers, Minnesota Department of Health
- Stephanie Boarden, PolicyLink
- Jacques Colon, Tacoma-Pierce County Health Department
- Marjory Givens, University of Wisconsin

- Chrissie Juliano, Big Cities Health Coalition/NACCHO
- Susie Levy, Seattle City Council
- Wendy Loomas, Solano County Health & Social Services
- Amanda Navarro, PolicyLink
- Bob Prentice, Retired/Former Director of BARHII
- Linda Rudolph, Center for Climate Change & Health
- Pamela Russo, Robert Wood Johnson Foundation
- Kathi Schaff, Berkeley Media Studies Group (formerly Alameda County Public Health Department)
- Brian Smedley, National Collaborative for Health Equity
- Evonda Thomas-Smith, Evanston Department of Health & Human Services
- Toby Urvater, Maricopa County Department of Public Health
- Andy Wessel, Douglas County Health Department
- Sandra Witt, The California Endowment
- Naima Wong Croal, Consultant for National Collaborative for Health Equity
- Stephanie Caldwell, Van Do-Reynoso, and Geof Swain for providing user feedback